

~~IOM~~ iM TRUTH AMERICA INSIDER

AUTUMN 2025

FEATURING:

- Judge Mark Boonstra
- Dr. Stephen Phinney
- Keith Radcliffe
- Mary Parada
- And more...

By standing with Judge Mark Boonstra and Dr. Stephen Phinney, you are advancing the cause of true liberty—restoring greatness to both our nation and the freedom we have in Christ.

iM TRUTH INSIDER

AUTUMN 2025

They're impacting the Judicial System.

IDENTITY POLITICS. FIGHTING BACK WITH YOUR SUPPORT!

By standing with Judge Mark Boonstra and Dr. Stephen Phinney, you are helping make freedom in Christ great again—one broadcast, one essay, one bold truth at a time. Your support fuels a powerful online series and podcast that unapologetically calls America back to its founding beliefs, rooted in biblical liberty and the indwelling Life of Yeshua. Together, we're not just echoing history—we're reigniting it. This is more than content; it's a movement of restoration, conviction, and hope.

And you're part of it.

Through their compelling “Identity Politics” podcast and essay series, Judge Mark Boonstra and Dr. Stephen Phinney are leading a bold charge to restore America’s foundation in biblical truth and constitutional integrity. With clarity and conviction, they expose how modern culture has drifted from the Christian beliefs held by our Founding Members—beliefs that once anchored our laws, shaped our liberties, and defined our national identity. Their broadcasts& essays challenge listeners to reject cultural compromise and rediscover the indwelling Life of Christ as the true source of freedom, justice, and moral clarity.

By weaving prophetic insight with constitutional analysis, Boonstra and Phinney equip Americans to discern the spiritual roots of our nation’s founding documents and the urgent need to defend them. Their essays and podcast episodes confront the erosion of biblical values in public policy, education, and media, while offering practical steps for reclaiming our heritage. This isn’t just commentary—it’s a call to action. Through their online platforms, they are awakening a remnant to stand firm, speak truth, and rebuild the walls of righteousness around a nation in crisis. Visit their platform HERE. IMWritersForum.Substack.com

"Exchanging Lives—One Life at a Time!"

YOUR GIFTS SUSTAIN OUR SERVICES:

YOUR SUPPORT ADVANCES OUR SERVICES

Your prayers and financial care are the lifeblood of our outreach—empowering us to deliver biblically anchored resources to tens of thousands across the globe. Each act of generosity fuels the creation of devotionals, podcasts, visual campaigns, and teaching materials that proclaim the indwelling Life of Yeshua with clarity and conviction. Because of you, we're able to equip believers, confront cultural drift, and restore hearts to the truth of Christ-in-you.

This ministry doesn't run on trends—it runs on truth, and your support ensures that truth reaches the hungry, the hurting, and the hopeful. From digital platforms to printed materials, your partnership amplifies our impact, enabling us to bring life to homes, churches, and nations. Together, we are building a legacy of transformation—one soul, one resource, one broadcast at a time.

Stephen Phinney is one of the most accomplished and prophetic spiritual visionaries of our time. His incredible life story serves as a testament to what has become his life's work—sharing and extolling the redemptive powers of the Lord Jesus Christ.

— Judge Boonstra

IOM America continues to expand its digital reach through a robust network of media platforms and publishing outlets. The IM Email Network now serves over 21,500 subscribers with timely essays, devotionals, and ministry tools. Our IM Social Networks engage more than 1.8 million inboxes annually, delivering scripturally anchored content to a global audience hungry for truth.

Our podcast lineup includes The End Times Podcast, offering prophetic insights into modern events, and The Exchanged Life Podcast, available on all major platforms, proclaiming the indwelling Life of Yeshua. The Identity Politics Essay Series and Podcast, hosted by Dr. Stephen Phinney and Judge Mark Boonstra, confronts cultural drift with biblical clarity and constitutional conviction. Additionally, our articles, media, and essays are published through Substack, the IM Blog site, and Constant Contact's international network. The IM Christian Writers Association further amplifies our voice by publishing transformative essays from contributing Christian authors.

Our faithful prayer warriors and generous donors form the bedrock of IOM America's mission to transform lives through the indwelling Life of Christ. Your unwavering support empowers every outreach, broadcast, and resource we release. Thank you for being the foundation that keeps this ministry thriving.

Multiplying YOUR IMPACT. FURTHERING THE IOM MISSION.

IOM America is strategically engaging Generation Z through a dynamic blend of media, music, and message—designed to meet this rising generation where they are, while calling them into the deeper reality of Christ-in-you. Recognizing Gen Z's hunger for authenticity and digital fluency, we've expanded our outreach to include platforms and formats that resonate with their daily rhythms. From short-form videos and podcast clips to interactive devotionals and visual campaigns, our media presence is crafted to spark curiosity, challenge cultural norms, and invite young hearts into the indwelling Life of Yeshua.

One of our most vibrant tools is the iZ Music Channel, a curated space where prophetic lyrics, redemptive storytelling, and worship-infused soundscapes collide. This channel isn't just entertainment—it's a spiritual invitation. Through original compositions and artist collaborations, we're using music to dismantle false identity narratives and awaken Gen Z to their true identity in Christ. Every beat, lyric, and visual is designed to bypass performance-driven religion and speak directly to the soul, offering hope, healing, and holy unrest.

Complementing this is our Substack Essay Series, where we release thought-provoking articles tailored to the questions, struggles, and longings of Gen Z. These essays confront cultural drift, expose the emptiness of self-made identity, and offer scripturally anchored truth with clarity and compassion. Whether addressing gender confusion, social justice, or spiritual apathy, each piece is written to equip young readers with discernment and courage. Through this series, we're not just informing minds—we're forming hearts for legacy impact.

BECAUSE OF CHRIST IN YOU

IOM America is Reaching Generation Z

Critical Podcast Ignites Victory

A CALL FOR REVIVAL INDWELLING LIFE IS ON THE RISE

Keith Radcliffe speaks up with your support behind him.

Dr. Stephen Phinney and Keith Radcliff boldly confront the cultural drift from the biblical reality of indwelling Life in Yeshua, exposing how modern Christianity often substitutes performance, programs, and personality for true spiritual union.

Through prophetic teaching and relational dialogue, they trace this erosion to a subtle yet pervasive shift—from Christ-centered dependency to self-driven spirituality. Their discussions highlights how the sacred mystery of Christ in us has been diluted by cultural accommodation, emotionalism, and theological compromise. Together, they call believers back to the crucified Life, urging a return to the abiding presence of Yeshua as the only source of authentic transformation, power, and hope in a world increasingly shaped by counterfeit light.

Your faithful support of IOM America fuels our ability to broadcast the authentic Gospel across ten of the world's leading podcast platforms.

Each donation, prayer, and share helps us amplify the message of Christ-in-you through multiple venues—reaching listeners hungry for truth, clarity, and transformation. From Spotify to Apple Podcasts, our network delivers uncompromised biblical teaching, prophetic insight, and redemptive storytelling to a global audience. Because of you, we continue to equip believers, confront cultural drift, and proclaim the indwelling Life of Yeshua with boldness and grace. Your partnership isn't just keeping us online—it's keeping the Gospel alive in the hearts of thousands.

AMERICA'S HAMAS

Judge Mark T. Boonstra

This week marks two years—TWO YEARS!—since Hamas terrorists massacred thousands of Israelis and foreign nationals and kidnapped hundreds more.

According to the American Jewish Committee, forty-eight of the hostages (including two Americans) taken into captivity in Gaza on October 7, 2023 remain Hamas prisoners (although some are believed to already be dead), continuing to suffer physical abuse, starvation, psychological torment, and isolation.

Two years . . . 730 days . . . and counting.

Even the American hostages taken captive in Iran in 1979 were released after 444 days.

The Golden Rule (“do to others what you would have them do to you”) (Matthew 7:12) notwithstanding, unimaginable cruelty toward others remains alive and well.

And it apparently knows no bounds.

Worse, it is not confined to Gaza. Or the Middle East.

It’s here in America too.

There has been a dramatic uptick of political violence in America in recent years.

Attempted assassinations of Republican Congressmen. A successful assassination of a corporate executive. Two attempted assassinations of the current President of the United States. An attempted assassination of a United States Supreme Court Justice. The recent successful assassination of Charlie Kirk. Mass shootings targeting Christians. The indiscriminate slaughter of children at Christian schools and parishioners worshipping in their churches. Shootings targeting federal law enforcement agents seeking to enforce the law. Riots. Smash-and-grabs. Burning vehicles. Takeovers of federal buildings and city blocks by Antifa thugs.

The list goes on and on

Some claim that this scourge of political violence occurs equally across the political spectrum.

It’s not true. The facts prove otherwise.

The violence is coming from the Left. The Left’s recurring and deadly acts of political violence vastly dwarf (by an ever-increasing order of magnitude) any occasional acts of violence by fringe right-wingers (which in any event are immediately and roundly condemned by all). Yet the Left continues to stoke the fires of hate, tacitly and implicitly encouraging and inciting the very violence they sometimes pretend to condemn.

What's behind this?

It's the same evil mentality that fuels the Hamas terrorists in Gaza.

This, indeed, is America's Hamas.

Hamas seeks to eradicate the State of Israel. Not peaceful coexistence. Not a constructive dialogue. Not a negotiated resolution of issues. It uncompromisingly demands the death of its neighbors.

The radical Left in America is equally uncompromising. And similarly motivated.

Its lip-service toward tolerance notwithstanding, the Left is singularly intolerant of anyone who does not subscribe to its twisted ways of thinking.

For all its talk about "choice," the only choice it truly favors is the choice to kill unborn babies. It opposes parental choice in education, rejects healthcare choice in vaccines or alternative treatment options, and even denies us choice in deciding whether to attend church or family gatherings (especially if unmasked) when the government deigns to decree it unlawful. It forbids you the right to think and speak in ways that it does not approve.

And the Left is not interested in dialogue. Or a negotiated resolution of issues. It uncompromisingly demands capitulation and surrender. It seeks to intimidate and coerce, censoring and canceling those who do not comply.

Those who profess to decry authoritarianism are, in actuality, the true authoritarians.

And when the American people reject its increasingly bizarre rhetoric and extreme positions, the Left refuses to accept the results. And has the audacity to proclaim that its efforts to flaunt the will of the American voter are somehow required to save democracy.

Despite—or perhaps because of—the Left's duplicity and double-speak, it has lost the argument.

So, what now is its recourse?

Does it accept that it has strayed from mainstream thinking? And from common sense? Much less from Biblical truth? Does it learn from its mistakes? Does it reengage with dialogue? Does it revamp or revise its positions? Does it return to truth?

Not a chance.

It digs in its heels. It lashes out. It refuses to listen to reason.

And when nothing else works, it has a temper tantrum.

It resorts to violence.

That is what we are experiencing in America today.

And it cannot be tolerated.

Our society depends on our adherence to the rule of law.

Free speech? Absolutely!

Political violence? Absolutely not!

The anarchy of political violence being unleashed on America today must be dealt with surely and swiftly. It must be met with strength and fortitude. It simply cannot be allowed.

Americans need and deserve a societal environment in which they are free to live their lives as they see fit, to exercise their right to pursue “life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness,” and to speak their minds according to their own values, all with assurances of safety and security. And this requires a system of laws that enforce their right to do so.

Appeasement is not the answer. If we have learned anything in our history, it is that appeasement does not work.

Surrendering one’s core values, and caving in to cultural pressure, leads at best to a temporary respite from the ravages of the storm. While creating an illusion of peace, it merely emboldens the forces of darkness, encouraging them to fight another day.

After all, accepting a middle ground between good and evil only leads us that much closer to evil. And it makes truth appear negotiable.

It’s not.

As a wise Solomon once observed, “Like a muddied spring or a polluted fountain is a righteous man who gives way before the wicked.” (Proverbs 25:26.)

The evil in our midst must therefore be confronted, not mollified. As the Apostle Paul wrote, “Do not be unequally yoked with unbelievers. For what partnership has righteousness with lawlessness? Or what fellowship has light with darkness?” (2 Corinthians 6:14-15.) After all, “a little leaven leavens the whole lump.” (Galatians 5:9.)

In these dark times, we must remember that “because lawlessness will be increased, the love of many will grow cold. But the one who endures to the end will be saved.” (Matthew 24:12-13.)

So let us endure to the end. Let us go forth to steadfastly confront evil, to stand firm for truth, to put an end to the political violence, and to endeavor to reinstill in the evildoers the Golden Rule maxim of “do[ing] to others what you would have them do to you” (Matthew 7:12) and to “love your neighbor as yourself.” (Galatians 5:14.)

-Judge Boonstra | ©Identity Politics Series

CONSULTING WITH MYSELF

Dr. Stephen Phinney

Scripture records that “I consulted with myself” (Nehemiah 5:7), revealing a man who governed his emotions before governing others. His restraint was not weakness—it was strength under submission to God. Nehemiah’s leadership teaches us that self-control is not merely the absence of anger, but the presence of discernment, humility, and Spirit-led conviction. To walk as he did is to lead with clarity in chaos, to build with integrity amid corruption, and to reflect the character of Christ in every decision.

MY STORY

My childhood was marked by a paradox—an absence of self-control masked by a relentless drive to control others. I learned early how to manipulate environments, steer conversations, and assert dominance, not out of strength, but out of a deep need to feel secure in a world that often felt unstable. Anger, fear, and pride became tools I wielded to maintain order on my terms. While others saw leadership, what they often missed was the internal chaos—the lack of restraint, the impulsive reactions, and the unspoken desperation to be seen, heard, and obeyed. Control became my currency, and I spent it freely, unaware that it was costing me the very peace I longed for.

Yet even in that season, God was planting seeds of conviction. The contrast between external control and internal obedience began to stir within me.

I saw the damage done by unchecked emotion and the hollowness of influence rooted in fear. Slowly, the Spirit began to reveal that true leadership isn’t about mastering others—it’s about mastering yourself. The journey from manipulation to maturity was painful, but necessary. And through it, I discovered that self-control is not weakness—it is the strength to choose restraint when reaction feels easier, and to lead with integrity when control tempts compromise. That revelation became the turning point, shaping the leader I am today.

My obsession with “Not but Christ” was born from the ashes of my own weakness—a lifetime of striving to control, to lead, to be enough in my own strength. I had mastered the art of influence, but not the discipline of internal obedience. The more I tried to shape the world around me, the more I realized how fractured my inner world had become. It was in that brokenness that the Spirit whispered the truth: “It is no longer I who live, but Christ who lives in me” (Galatians 2:20). That revelation didn’t just correct my theology—it redefined my identity. I saw that true leadership, true peace, and true power could only flow from a life crucified with Christ. “Not but Christ” became more than a phrase—it became my lifeline, my compass, and my cry. In every weakness, He proved strong. In every surrender, He proved sufficient. And in every moment of dying to self, I found the resurrection of purpose.

GODLY SELF-CONTROL

Biblically, self-control is not merely a moral discipline—it is a divine manifestation of Yeshua dwelling within the believer. Galatians 5:22–23 lists self-control as a fruit of the Spirit, meaning it is not produced by human effort alone but by the indwelling presence of Christ. When Yeshua lives in us, His nature begins to shape our responses, our desires, and our decisions. Self-control, then, is not the suppression of passion but the sanctification of it. It is the evidence that the Messiah is reigning over the impulses of the flesh and replacing them with the character of heaven.

This truth is stated in Titus 2:11–12, which declares that the grace of God teaches us to deny ungodliness and worldly lusts, and to live soberly, righteously, and godly in this present age. Grace is not passive—it is power in action. It is the active presence of Yeshua enabling us to say “no” to sin and “yes” to righteousness. The believer who walks in self-control is not simply disciplined; he is Spirit-led. His restraint is not rooted in fear or pride, but in love and reverence for the One who lives within him. As Paul wrote in Galatians 2:20, “It is no longer I who live, but Christ who lives in me.” That indwelling life is the source of true mastery over the flesh.

Yeshua Himself modeled perfect self-control. In the wilderness, He resisted Satan’s temptations not by sheer willpower, but by wielding the Word of God with precision and trust (Matthew 4:1–11). On the cross, He restrained legions of angels and endured suffering with divine patience. His life was not reactive—it was proactive. When His Spirit fills us, we begin to reflect that same restraint, not as a burden but as a blessing. Self-control becomes a testimony that Christ is alive in us, governing our emotions, guiding our choices, and glorifying the Father through every surrendered moment.

Self-control, as a manifestation of Yeshua within, is foundational to biblical servant leadership.

A servant leader is not driven by impulse, ego, or the need to dominate, but by the Spirit of Christ who governs the heart with wisdom, restraint, and love. Jesus Himself modeled this perfectly—He led with authority, yet never with arrogance. He rebuked injustice, yet never retaliated in pride. His leadership was marked by self-restraint, even in the face of betrayal, mockery, and suffering. In John 13, He washed the feet of those who would abandon Him, showing that true leadership begins with humility and ends in sacrificial service. Without self-control, leadership becomes manipulation; with it, leadership becomes ministry.

Nehemiah exemplified this connection. Though he held a position of influence, he never used it for personal gain. When provoked by enemies or confronted with internal corruption, he responded with prayerful patience and strategic action—not emotional reaction. His ability to govern himself allowed him to govern others with justice and compassion. Biblical servant leadership demands this kind of Spirit-led restraint. It is not passive—it is powerful. It is the ability to lead with clarity in chaos, to speak truth without venom, and to serve without seeking recognition. When self-control flows from the indwelling life of Yeshua, leadership becomes a reflection of heaven—marked by grace, anchored in truth, and driven by love.

Here is your challenge—one that cuts through the noise and calls leaders to rise with conviction:

If self-control is a fruit of the Spirit, then its absence is not a flaw in personality—it's a fracture in surrendered obedience.

We live in a time when leadership is often loud, reactive, and self-serving. But biblical servant leadership demands something deeper: restraint that flows from reverence, decisions shaped by prayer, and authority anchored in humility. Nehemiah didn't lead by impulse—he led by intercession. He didn't build with bravado—he built with brokenness and resolve.

-Stephen Phinney | ©Nehemiah Series

Rightly Dividing Truth recommends

Author of Rightly Dividing Truth

🎧 If you're hungry for truth and ready to be stirred, Dr. Stephen Phinney doesn't just teach—he awakens. With a voice rooted in conviction and clarity, his podcast and teaching series cut through confusion and call believers back to the heart of Christ. Tune in, and prepare to be challenged, equipped, and deeply encouraged.

A NOTE FROM STEPHEN

BECAUSE OF YOU, THE TRUTH OF CHRIST IS REACHING THE WORLD

Because our prayer warriors and financial donors are rising with boldness and conviction, IOM America is advancing the Lord's mission in a world saturated with deception. Their intercession and generosity are breaking through spiritual strongholds, allowing us to proclaim the truth of the believer's identity in Yeshua with clarity and power.

In a culture that promotes self-made identity and emotional confusion, we are declaring the indwelling Life of Christ as the only source of true transformation. Through devotionals, podcasts, essays, and visual outreach, we are drawing souls back to the foundational truth: that every believer's identity is rooted in Christ alone, not in performance, politics, or personal striving.

This movement is not sustained by trends—it is fueled by truth. And your support makes it possible. Because you give, we continue to reach tens of thousands with resources that confront lies, restore hope, and awaken hearts to the reality of Christ-in-you. Together, we are fulfilling the Lord's goals for this generation—one soul, one message, one miracle at a time.

Stephen Phinney

Dr. Stephen Phinney
President/Founder of IOM America

Prayer Requests

- For the health and safety of the team.
- For the indwelling leadership of each of our Board Members.
- For the physical health and protection of several of our leaders.
- For the Lord to bring consistent monthly donors to our support team.
- That the Lord would raise up several major donors to sustain our annual budget.
- That the Lord would expand our efforts in Christ to Generation Z in an impactful way.
- For the Lord to bless and encourage each of our readers & viewers as they connect with our services.
- For the Lord to prosper and advance the donors and prayer warriors of our ministry.

Thank you for taking the time to pray for our needs and the mission that Yeshua has called us to fulfil. It means a lot to each of us!

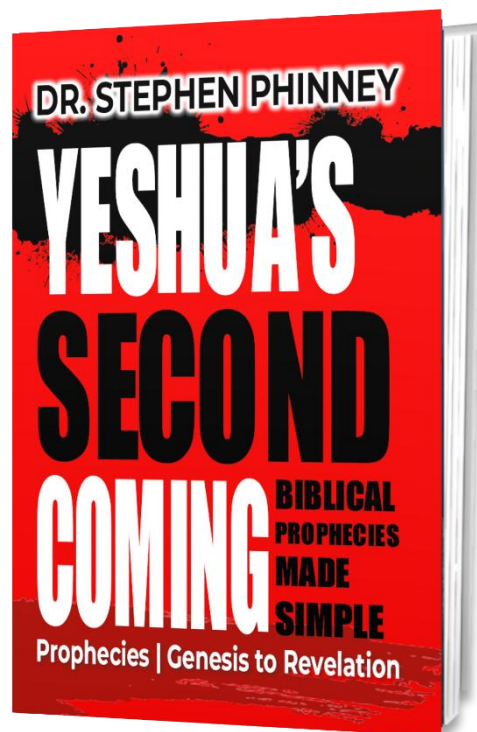

YESHUA'S SECOND COMING

Having enjoyably journeyed with Stephen Phinney for over 30 years, I can certainly attest to his unwavering faith and intense passion for living and sharing the indwelling of the Life of Christ. He studies incessantly; investigates doggedly; and proclaims joyfully; the insights revealed to him through his incredibly enthusiastic friendship with Jesus. Stephen's life and ministry are a living example of: the Word of God; empowered by the Spirit of God; and shared by the people of God (which is the crux of all inspired ministry!).

This book reveals, explains, and confirms the value and significance of understanding end time events for emboldening the life of every believer, and encourages each of us to anchor our anticipation and confidence in the enduring, inerrant timeline found in the Scriptures. I suspect this latest work will become an indispensable resource to both the casual reader, as well as the diligent Biblical scholar. I found this work to be the 'connective tissue' for the entire body of Scripture, and it will go a long way in helping the sincere student with their navigation and understanding of prophecy and its redemptive fulfillment.

For those who typically find themselves in apprehension and dread of Scripture's brutally described end time events, Dr. Phinney's work brings clarity, confidence, and a joyful anticipation of the culmination of our loving Father's promises to redeem and restore all those who have surrendered to his sovereignty and care. I will be sharing this book with many, many people! Thank you again Dr. Phinney!

-Greg Jones

HELP US MAKE AN IMPACT, CLOSE OUT 2025 WITH SUCCESS, AND PREPARE US FOR 2026.

— Advancing The Indwelling Life —

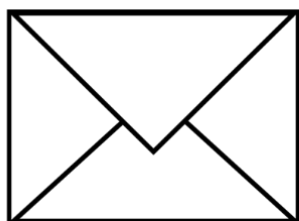

Dr. Phinney's daily writings have been nothing short of divine appointments...timely, encouraging, and filled with the kind of truth that both admonishes and uplifts the soul. His deep insight into the Hebrew Scriptures opens the Word in a way that feels like discovering a hidden book within the Book itself. Every reflection carries a weight of anointed wisdom that stirs the heart and renews the mind.

Each post feels personal, as though Dr. Phinney were speaking directly to me, offering the right word at the right time. I find myself meditating on his teachings throughout the day, strengthened and inspired to walk more faithfully with God. Praise the Lord for this powerful ministry...may it continue to grow, multiply, and reach even more hearts with the transforming truth of His Word! -Mary Parada

David Tredway | Author of Rightly Dividing Truth

If you're hungry for truth and ready to be stirred, Dr. Stephen Phinney doesn't just teach—he awakens. With a voice rooted in conviction and clarity, his podcast and teaching series cut through confusion and call believers back to the heart of Christ. Tune in, and prepare to be challenged, equipped, and deeply encouraged.

3 EASY WAYS TO GIVE

Send in your gift by mail. Please use the address at the bottom of this page.

Aim your phone's camera here, tap, and give.

Send in your gift through our online quickly and securely at:

IOMAmerica.net/Founders-Donor-Partner

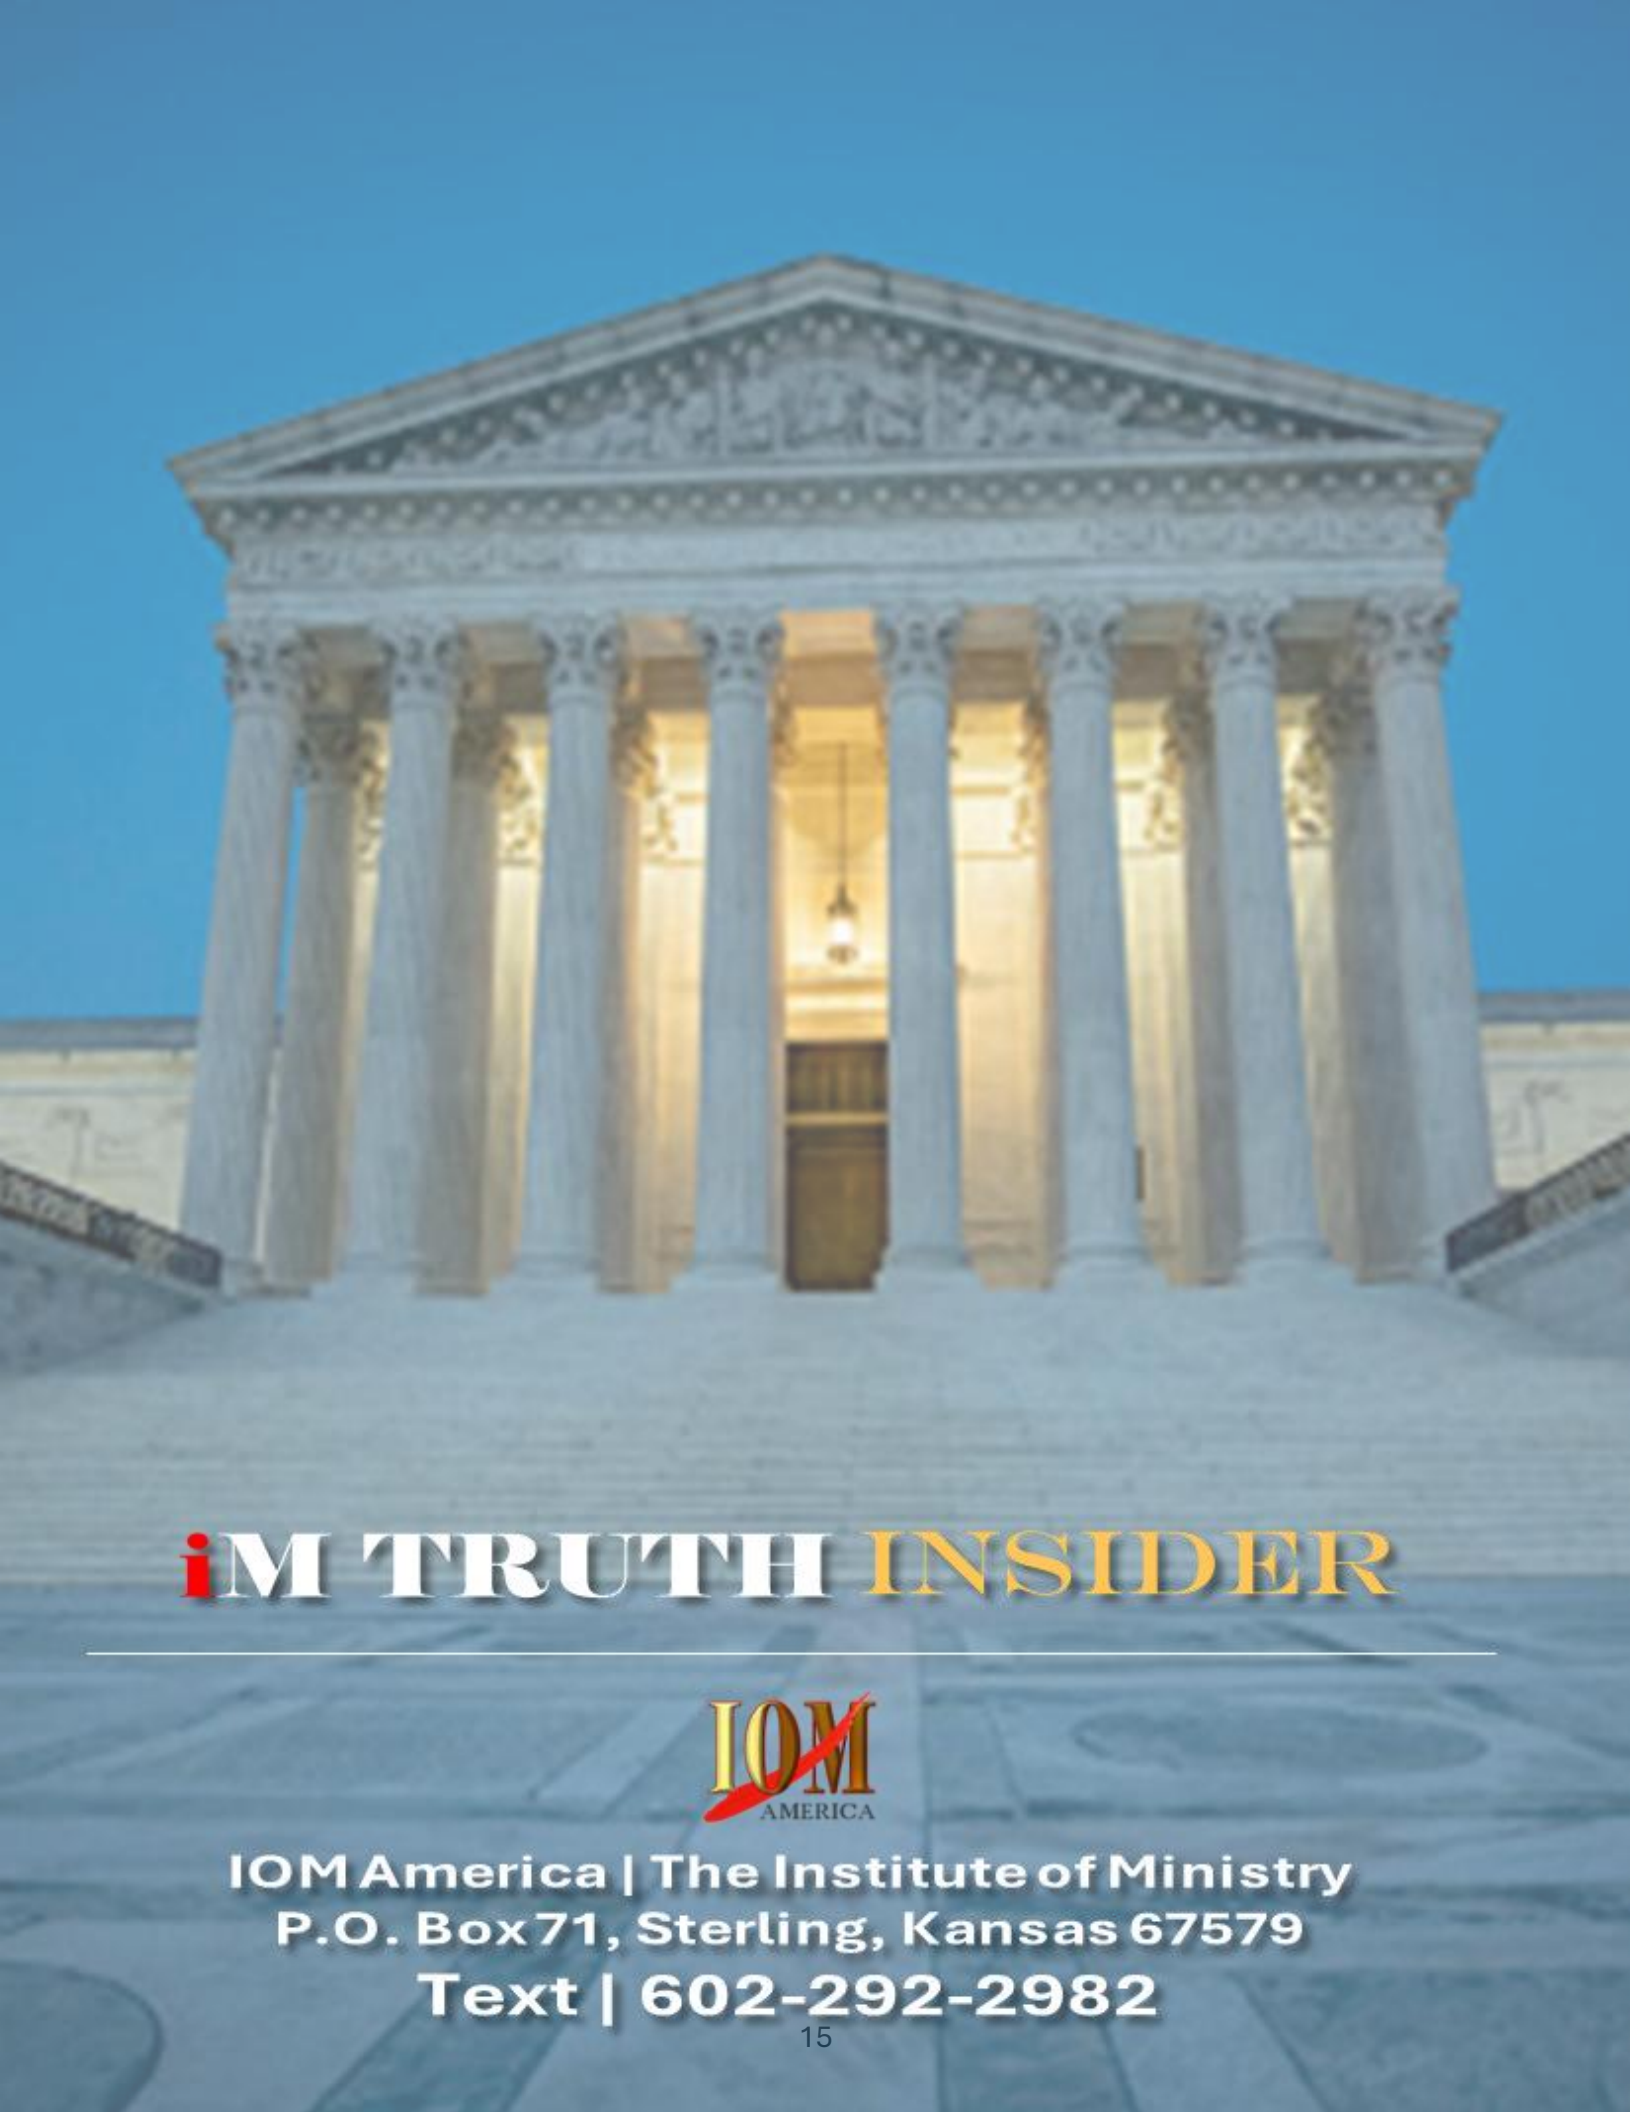

THANK YOU

THE INSTITUTE OF MINISTRY | IOM AMERICA

P.O. Box 71

Sterling, KS 67579 | 602-292-2982 | corporate@iomamerica.org

iM TRUTH INSIDER

IOM America | The Institute of Ministry
P.O. Box 71, Sterling, Kansas 67579
Text | 602-292-2982